DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Stihler et al. (US 5474538) in view of Truhan (US 3551641).

Stihler discloses the claimed invention including inter alia a body generally centered on an axis and having an outer surface formed with a radially outwardly open helical groove of a cross-sectional shape, generally corresponding to a cross-sectional shape of the tubing, whereby the tubing can be fitted to the groove in heat-exchange contact with the body, wherein the groove is of part-circular section, means for mounting the body to an IV rack with the axis generally horizontal, and means for heating or cooling the body. Stihler does not explicitly disclose the outer surface being tapered axially such that substantially all of the groove can be seen from a point axially offset from the body.

Truhan discloses an intravenous liquid-warming device for thermally conditioning stored blood, the components thereof, etc., prior to transfusion into a subject comprising a preformed, disposable, plastic multi-turn coil superimposed over and in contact with the outer surface of a frustoconical base complementary in size and shape to the coil.

It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made, in view of Truhan, to modify the device of Stihler to have a base having a frustoconical shape in order to provide for a longer fluid path thereby enabling the device to provide for more consistent heating of the fluid.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 5-7 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 01/11/05 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Applicant seems to argue that applicant's invention defines over Truhan separately and Truhan in view of Stihler under 35 USC 103. Applicant's arguments do not seem to address the rejection of record. It should be noted that the examiner's rejection is in fact based on Stihler in view of Truhan under 35 USC 103. The examiner maintains that it would be obvious to modify the device of Stihler to have a base having a frustoconical shape, as taught by Truhan, in order to provide for a longer fluid path in the same horizontal space, thereby enabling the device to provide for more consistent heating of the fluid.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.

Art Unit: 3742
